8 Keys Affirmations

Affirmations—short, positive statements that send an I can or an I am message—can bring about desired change in your life. Repeatedly stating what is strongly desired as if it were already true causes the brain and emotions to see and feel it as true regardless of the current circumstances. The mind and emotions then work together to transform the mental image into reality. So pick an affirmation and start sending those positive messages to your brain! Make sure that little voice in your head is supporting you, not blocking your progress.

Here are affirmations for all the 8 Keys. We’re including all age groups in case you want to share them with your family.
